

H1B visa holders immigrate with less hassle

Thursday, 21 May 2009

Last Updated Monday, 08 March 2010

There is an exciting opportunity for those who are currently working in the US to apply for a fast-track immigration to Canada via the Alberta Provincial Nominee Program.

The eligibility requirements are the following: a candidate must have been working in the United States for a minimum of 1 year and possessed the valid visa (H1-B, H1-B1, H-1C, E-3) at the moment of applying for a provincial certificate up to the moment of issuance of the same; the work experience must have been acquired in one of the eligible occupations. If a candidate complies with the requirements, he becomes a Provincial Nominee. Then his application is to be processed by the federal government and, having passed health and security checks, an applicant shall be granted a permanent resident status.