

Live-In caregiver procedures eased

Thursday, 21 May 2009

Last Updated Thursday, 21 May 2009

As of May 4, 2009, the Canadian government changed the requirements for advertisement efforts required from prospective employers. Now, employers are to advertise on a national Job Bank for 14 calendar days whereas there are no more mandatory requirements to advertise in a secondary source. An employer is also required to acquire a Canada Revenue Agency Business Number and to submit new supporting documents along with their application for a LMO to hire a live-in caregiver.